

Tristan Thomas is a seasoned policy and political professional with a career dedicated to bridging the public, private, and non-profit sectors. Originally from the Bronx, Tristan relocated to Boston to pursue his education at Northeastern University, where he earned a Bachelor of Science in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics. During his time at Northeastern, Tristan participated in the university's cooperative education program, which led to a five-year tenure at Tremont Strategies Group (TSG), a prominent lobbying firm representing a diverse array of clients across multiple industries. In 2023, Tristan joined the Black Economic Council of Massachusetts (BECMA), a nonprofit organization committed to advancing economic equity, prosperity, and inclusive growth across the state. In 2025, Tristan took on a new role as the Director of Policy at Alternatives for Community & Environment (ACE), a grassroots environmental justice organization. In this capacity, he champions policies aimed at fostering a healthier, more sustainable Roxbury, working to address environmental disparities and promote community well-being.
